Donation Drive To Benefit:

Haitian Migrants in the Dominican Republic

Jimani is a small town situated one mile from the border between the Dominican Republic and Haiti. It is located in the south and is the poorest region of the country. On a daily basis Haitian migrants enter the DR to work in construction/domestic labor jobs or to sell goods in local markets.

Many migrants survive by selling used clothing donated by groups and individuals from the US and Europe. In Jimani there is a small micro-leading business COTEDEMIICF, that was started with two women who were out of work. Both were given a bag of clothes, lotions and body spray to sell. Each week the project collects 50% of the profits to invest in other goods. Likewise these women keep the other 50% to invest in a better livelihood and their businesses.

ANY and ALL donations will help the project, as there is always a market for selling all types of goods. This will help more women enter the project and increase their business.

DONATIONS:
- Adult and Children Clothing  (only non-winter items, please)
- Shoes
- Bed sheets / Pillow cases
- Cash donations are welcome  (Please give to Pamela Stilin – Languages, Literatures & Cultures - Ettinger 106)

PLEASE PLACE ALL DONATIONS IN MARKED BINS IN ETTINGER AND SEEGERS UNION FROM APRIL 29, 2013 UNTIL END OF SEMESTER!*

THANK YOU!

CONTACT:
Caitlin Stilin-Rooney ‘11, Muhlenberg College graduate
Jimani, Dominican Republic
Email: cstilinrooney@gmail.com
Facebook: cotedemicfa@gmail.com